Projects

Fake News Detection Using Machine learning (Team Lead)

November 2021 - April 2022

- Created and trained a machine learning model using natural language processing (NLP) techniques to identify and classify fake news articles with a high degree of accuracy.
- Conducted rigorous evaluation of the model's performance on a diverse dataset, achieving impressive accuracy rates and outperforming existing solutions in the field.
- We proposed this application so that it can be considered as a useful system since it helps to reduce the limitations obtained from traditional and other existing methods.
- The objective of this study to develop fast and reliable method which detects stress accurately. To design this system , we used a passive aggressive classifier in a Python environment.

Dog Breed Classification Using Deep learning

June 2020 - December 2020

- Implemented dog breeds classification by removing noise so that cctv can also detect the dogs which are lost Also added 7 extra breeds to the dataset.
- Comparison study of several Deep Learning techniques.
- Achieved highest for inception model and publishing a paper and applying for patent.
